

Our Right to Vote?

“I Just Don’t Know,” says Hillary Clinton

- Backers of Hillary Clinton are suing in court to take away our right to vote in the Caucus.
- When asked by a reporter where she stood on our right to vote in the casinos, Hillary Clinton said “I just don’t know.” Reno Gazette Journal, 1/12/2008
- Barack Obama knows that our right to vote is sacred. As a civil rights lawyer, he fought for voting rights. As an organizer, he registered workers to vote.

What the News is Saying

“The lawsuit...is a hardball effort by Clinton allies to block votes from the 60,000-member Culinary Union”

Hillary Clinton has sought to “divide the Culinary membership.”

“top officials backing Mrs. Clinton [are] suing to block the creation of several at-large precincts in some Las Vegas Resorts. But without those special precincts, many members of the culinary workers union...would not be able to get out of vote to work”

The New York Times

“As soon as you decided to support the outsider, the working people instead of the big shots, all the sudden they decided they wanted to change the rules”

Barack Obama at Culinary Union 1/13/08

Culinary Workers for Barack Obama

5 Days to the January 19th Caucus