

A close-up, black and white photograph of a rat's face, focusing on its eyes and whiskers. The rat's eyes are glowing with a bright red light, creating a striking contrast against the dark fur. The whiskers are long and thin, radiating from the snout. The overall mood is mysterious and intense.

“Part of the beauty of living at Anthem is that the area is surrounded by natural desert, and animal life
exists in the desert.”

—Allison Copening

Las Vegas Mercury, “King Rat,” June 3, 2004

Paid for by the Committee to Improve Nevada’s Economy and Education System
410 S. Minnesota Street
Carson City, Nevada 89703

PRESORT STD
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
BC

That was Allison Copening's response to homeowners when rats infested their homes and community.

At the time, she was Public Affairs Director for a builder and charged with helping resolve issues for homeowners in Southern Nevada. (Source: Copening website.)

Rats the size of dogs were infesting attics, garages, patios, and outdoor areas in Anthem.

One resident said that she would have to move or marry an exterminator.

Copening's callous response was that residents should accept rats as part of nature.

Imagine how she would respond to YOUR concerns if she is elected to the Nevada Senate.

Allison Copening...Unprepared. Unconcerned. Unaware.